COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course carefully examines and describes how the key human resource functions play a significant role in the health care environment. It focuses heavily on how each particular human resource function supports management initiatives. With a strategic focus, this course methodically scrutinizes how human resource functions such as employee selection, development, motivation, and appraisal can impact a health care organization's ongoing business continuity. It also thoroughly examines how health care employees, managers, and administrators must operate within the dynamic legal environment of human resources.

PREREQUISITE TO:

N/A

REQUIRED:

Computer: A computer which is easily accessible to the students during the week and through the weekend which is compatible with the Desire to Learn (D2L) system. For compatibility questions, contact the D2L Administrator at 618-453-1016 or mycourse.siu.edu.

Internet and D2L Access: To successfully complete this course, students must use the D2L System which will require internet accessibility.
This class uses D2L extensive, but is not a class that teaches D2L. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with the D2L system and be knowledgeable of how it is used within the first week of class.

To access D2L, please contact the D2L administrator at 618-453-1016 or at mycourses.siu.edu.

By the end of the first week of class, it is the student’s responsibility to make sure the D2L system/email systems are working sufficiently. Technical problems, such as computer incompatibility should be directed to the D2L Administrator at 618-453-1016. The instructor cannot assist the students with technical problems; these must be handled by the D2L Administrator.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

The primary objective of RAD 531 is to instill in the student an understanding of the human resource and regulatory issues whereas the health care industry must operate. This is accomplished through an integrated study of topics, case studies of current events, and the review of relevant course related issues which revolve around the human resource and the management field. At the conclusion of the course, the student will be capable of:

1. Identifying strategies for the recruitment, selection, development, and retention of quality health care professionals;
2. Understanding the varying leadership styles, need for leadership cultivation, and succession planning strategies;
3. Differentiating between the varying motivational and communication strategies useful in creative productive work teams;
4. Identifying various legal issues which require managerial attention;
5. Understanding the changing workforce dynamics and the labor shortage issues;
6. Preparing for future challenges in the human resource field within the industry of health care.

ASSIGNMENTS:

- Students are expected to turn in master’s level work free from grammatical errors. Points will be deducted for violations.
- All assignments are to be typed – no handwritten assignments will be accepted.
- NO late assignments will be accepted. This is a management related degree and deadlines are a serious issue in the healthcare field. Again, NO late assignments will be accepted. Watch your due dates closely. All due dates/times are in Central Standard Time (CST).
- Any chat room or chat time, whereas points are given, cannot be made up if missed.
- All assignments/tests/quizzes should be submitted/completed through the D2L system unless otherwise instructed. Do NOT email them to the instructor (unless asked to do so) since the system cannot track that they have been submitted. No grade will be given for emailed assignments/tests/quizzes for any reason unless you are given permission from the instructor first.
Regarding bibliography and citations, the research paper should be in American Psychological Association (APA) format. The following website may prove helpful: http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/. Students should also know they can contact the Morris Library and consult with a librarian for assistance with APA format. Even long-distance students have this option. See the following website for methods of contact with Morris Library: http://www.lib.siu.edu.

The research paper should be approximately 15 pages long (not including title page and bibliography). A minimum of 20 sources should be from “peer reviewed” journals, books, governmental databases, etc. Please look up the definition of “peer reviewed” online so that you have a good idea of what the term means.

Avoid using more than a total of two websites. Even those two must be from highly respected sources. Government related websites are generally permissible such as www.dol.gov or www.bls.gov. Remember, just because it is on a website doesn’t mean it is accurate. Therefore, the information retrieved from these online sources cannot be easily verified in terms of authenticity and therefore will not be considered as “peer-reviewed”. Again, use no more than two websites as sources. If the instructor can't locate the information the student cites based upon the bibliography provided within the research paper the student will receive no credit for using it.

Use of any more than two websites will result in a zero for the research and presentation assignments. The bulk of the references/citations should come from journals, books, etc. This is not to say students can’t use online access to journals and books. Accessing journals online is encouraged and expected. Using the online accessibility available through Morris Library will prove very helpful to the students. Contact a Morris Library librarian for help with finding “peer reviewed” information on your topic at www.lib.siu.edu.
